CROWD HANDICAPS FIREMEN IN WORK.

Experience Difficulty in Getting Hose to Burning Building of Shallcross Plant.

Senator Morgan prop ses to instruct the ORIGIN OF FIRE NOT KNOWN.

Damage Estimated at $4,000 Re sults to Printing Stock, Caused Principally by Water.

Although handicapped by having to work in a narrow alley and to stretch hose for more than a bleck through a crowded thoroughfare, the Fire Department at 6 o'clock last evening checked a fire on the third and fourth floors of the Shalleross Printing and Stationery Company, No. 417 North Fourth street, in time to prevent Its spreading to adjoining buildings.

The building was but slightly damaged. Chief Swingley estimates the loss to the stock, valued at more than $100,000, to be but $4,000.

James J. Moller, estimate man of the company, who was on the ground floor with A. T. Myers, Stephen Shallcross and Joseph F. Nierman, discovered the fire. He ran to the elevator and saw the fire burning fiercely in the shaft.

The automatic alarm worked well and the companies were on the way to the fire before an alarm was turned in from :

street bex. Fourth street and Broadway were almost choked with persons leaving the stores and office buildings at the time. The flames shot high above the building and before the engines arrived the building was surrounded by a crowd.

The fire was a difficult one to handle. The flames were shooting from the windows of the third and fourth floors, which overlooked an alley little more than twelve feet wide. The closest fire plug was some distance from the building, and firemen had a hard time getting through the crowd with the hose. The alley was not wide enough to permit of the raising of Chief Swingley stationed men on the tor of the adjoining building, and these, with the ones that entered from the Fourth street side, in twenty minutes had extinguished the flames.

The greater part of the damage was done to the stock of the printing company by water. The composing-room on the fourth floor, the bindery on the third, the printing presses and stock on the fourth and the wares on the first all suffered. Water poured through the blulding and the Salvage Corps could do little work but on the ground floor. The origin of the fire is unknown,

FORT AND BARRACKS AT WARMBAD, GERMAN SOUTHWEST AFRICA

Where the insurgent Bondelszwarts Hottentots made their first attack. Most of the members of the garrison were killed or wounded, but it appears—though reports are conflicting—that ultimately the rebels were driven away. Now Germany has declared forfeited the lands hitherto held undisturbed by the Bondelszwarts Hottentots. Some of the insurgents have been trying to arrange to retreat into Cape Colony, but reports indicate that the main body of rebels was surrounded in the mountains near the frontier November 16. The result of the battle has not been learned. The Bondelszwarts are universally esteemed the bravest and most intelligent fighting men among all the South African tribes.
